Bay-Waveland school district planning volunteer program

By DENA BARNETTE
The Bay-Waveland School District is planning a volunteer program to help students in need of extra help. The program will be implemented by the beginning of the school year and will involve teachers and parents. The district is currently seeking volunteers to help with homework, reading, and other school-related activities. The program is intended to provide extra support for students who may be struggling in school. The program is intended to provide extra support for students who may be struggling in school.

Seaton said the next step in the program is to recruit parents and other interested citizens for the program and select a program director. They set up any needed training workshops. "The program is really intended to aid the school staff and assist them in using their time for the things they are best suited for," Seaton explained. "A hallmark of a good school system is an effective program for utilization of volunteers," he added. Eventually, the volunteer program may be augmented by an after-school program, in which businesses adopt a school or class by agreeing to provide donated funds, speakers, materials or other resources.

Bay-Waveland schools not to renew all contracts

By DENA BARNETTE
Not all of the contracts for teachers and other staff in the Bay-Waveland School District will be renewed for the 1989-90 school year. The district is currently reviewing all contracts and will be making decisions on renewals by the end of the year. The district is currently reviewing all contracts and will be making decisions on renewals by the end of the year. The district is currently reviewing all contracts and will be making decisions on renewals by the end of the year.

Anyone interested in volunteering should contact the Bay-Waveland district's central office at 467-4821 for more information. Seaton said he has obtained most of the information on utilizing volunteers in school from other school systems already doing so. He will assist the district with other types of surveys and with public relations. His position was created in order to satisfy some new requirements of the Commission on School Accreditation. "This new job is really a response to the community comments that the board is unwilling to listen. A major part of this position is to listen, to hear the community's concerns, to answer the community's questions, to return something to the community."

Expansion grant deadline is May 1

Hancock libraries trying to obtain matching funds

By DENA BARNETTE
The Hancock County Library system has been offered federal grant money for an expansion of the city-county library building at Uman Avenue and US-90. Library Director Prima Wusnick said local matching funds are being sought and must be committed before a May 1 grant acceptance deadline. According to a letter to Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar from Mississippi Library Commission Director David M. Woodburn, the 50 percent grant will come from federal Library Services and Construction Act Title II funds and will be administered through the association. The application for the funds was submitted in 1982, and the commission has agreed to provide $52,593 from 1986 monies, the letter states. The amount was determined from an estimate supplied by Fred Wagner, the architect who designed the original building. Woodburn's letter also states that the commission would provide an additional $50,000 during fiscal year 1987 if the proposed expansion could be done in two phases. The matching money this year would have to equal the first $52,593, which will be offered to another library if the Hancock County Library System does not accept before the May 1 deadline. The proposed expansion calls for an addition of about 1,500 square feet of public service area and renovation of an unused bookmobile garage as staff workspace and storage. Wusnick explained that the library has simply outgrown its quarters, originally built in 1975 after seven years of attempts by the board to obtain matching grant funding. Although the main library building has been supplemented by branches in Waveland and Kiln, Wusnick said that the 10,500 square feet in the main library building is still not enough, due to increased library usage and changes in the duties handled by the local staff. She explained that the commission maintained a centralized book processing center for Mississippi libraries at the time the city-county facility was built but discontinued the service in 1980. Local employees must now batch book orders, receive and process books and prepare them for public use before shelving them. Wusnick said about 3,000 books are processed locally each year in a workspace not designed to facilitate that volume. In addition, more workspace was taken up by computer systems used for book ordering, interlibrary loan services and some circulation functions. There is also a lack of storage space for the 109 magazines and journals now in the library, which limits the number of back issues that can be provided to library patrons. New services have also taken up space, the director stated. These include a young adults' book collection, a large print book collection, videotape services, an expansion in the reference collection, Internal LIBRARY—Page 7A

County residents seek to block proposed school bond issue

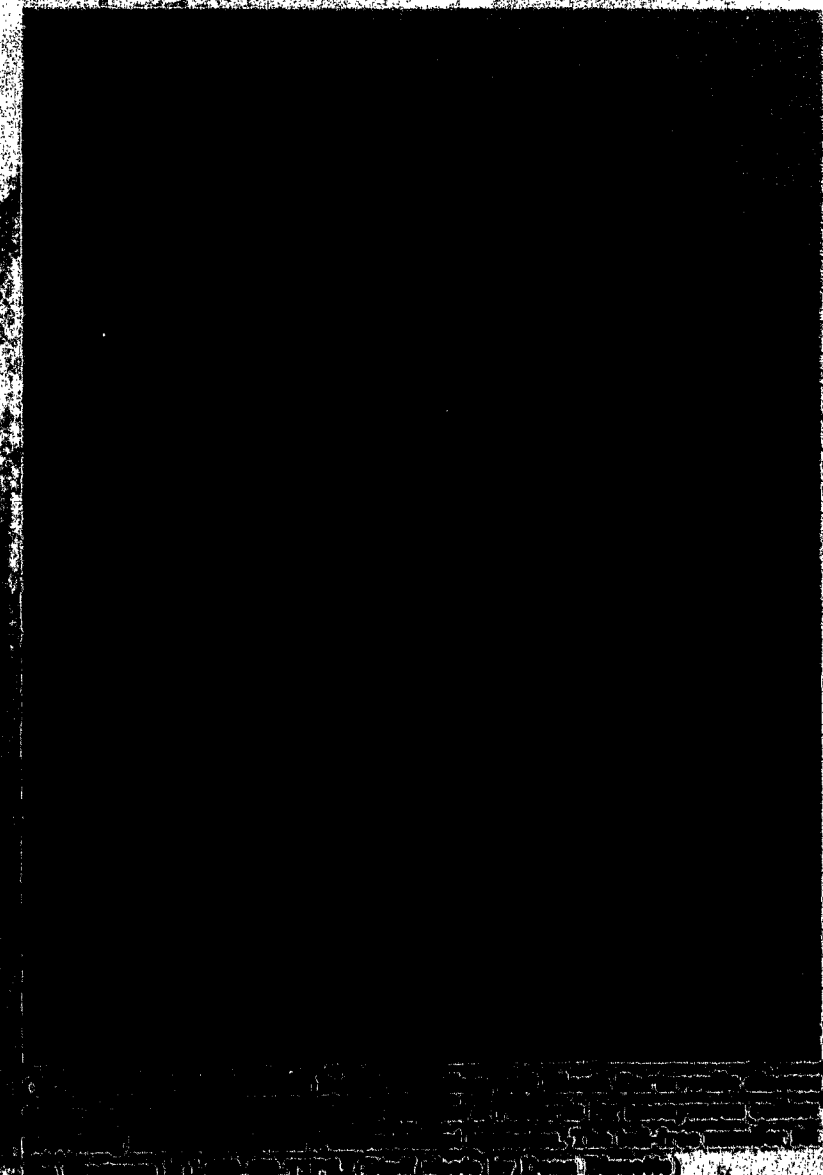

By DENA BARNETTE
A petition is expected to be submitted by Friday to the Hancock County School Board in protest of the proposed $10 million bond issue. "I have talked to several people who believe what you are going to do is not in the best interest of the county," said a resident who spoke at a meeting at the Kila Community Center. "We're going to stop the bond issue from going through without an election," he said. "It's not that we don't think that a new school is needed but for one so totally remote from the rest of the county, it's outrageous," he said. "We're going to keep the idea from being a 'crazy idea'."

Debra Martin of the Standard Community reported nearly enough signatures had been obtained on petitions to require a special election on the bond issue. "We're going to stop the bond issue from going through without an election," he said. "It's not that we don't think that a new school is needed but for one so totally remote from the rest of the county, it's outrageous," he said. "We're going to keep the idea from being a 'crazy idea'."

Bay police seek resident aid to halt burglary rash

By EDGAR H. PEREZ
Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy Wednesday issued an appeal to residents of the area bounded by De Mottuzin, Beach Boulevard, Bay-Waveland city limits and Railroad Avenue to report immediately any suspicious persons seen in the neighborhood. Some 14 homes have been burglarized in that area since March 15, Murphy reported. The incidents have occurred during daylight hours between late morning and early evening. "The culprits obviously are timing their strikes to coincide with the hours when residents are away at work," the chief said. The burglars have demonstrated a preference for electronic items such as video cassette recorders, television sets, sound systems, microwave ovens and some jewelry, the chief added. Police are looking for a solid white late model Ford pickup truck and a blue pickup, make and model unknown, Murphy explained. "We are urging residents of that area to call police immediately if they see anybody in the neighborhood they have never seen before, or anyone who looks suspicious for any reason," Murphy stated. The chief said police patrols in the area have been increased in an effort to stem the rash of break-ins. The Bay St. Louis Police Department telephone number is 467-4221, or reports of suspicious persons may be made by dialing 911.

A Review

Waveland Players frustrate audience effort to solve murders prematurely

By EDUARDO PEREZ

Go prepared to be amused and most thoroughly mystified at the Waveland Community Center Friday and Saturday as the Waveland Players will present a juxta-posed play-within-a-play entitled "The Real Inspector Hound."

The Players romped through a remarkably smooth first dress rehearsal of the production Monday night with few stage or rough spots.

With another dress rehearsal scheduled mid-week, Friday's opening night promises to bring a polished performance to Waveland theatergoers.

Director Alan Elbright has waved his theatrical magic wand again over a book requiring complicated blocking and intricate staging to keep the audience guessing until the very last.

"Inspector" is a mystery-comedy originally written as a one-act play but produced in Waveland in two short acts.

One of the secrets the performers have been given back about the play is that the mystery is so simple and the murders so easy.

It is only the director that the whole thing is a mystery.

"Inspector" is produced at Theatre Four in New York City in 1972, is definitely the type of play which allows Elbright's directorial talents to shine.

Playwright Tom Stoppard is a master craftsman who has won Tony Awards for "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead," "Travesties" and "The Real Thing."

Also shining in this Waveland Players production is Alexandra McPherson who brings to her role as Cynthia Muldoon, mistress of the manor, just the right touch of melodrama—an ingredient as essential to a Waveland Players production as mist on a moor.

Al Becker, the veteran of La Petit and Contemporary Arts Theatres in New Orleans, excels as the critic Moon—literally an audio-visual version of Roger's Thesaurus as he launches into intriguing soliloquies.

He is complemented in that role by fellow critic Moon played by Coast community theater veteran Ed Craig who brings the plaudering, unethical Moon to viability on the well-worn boards of the Civic Center.

Alice Holmes plods around through both acts as Lady Muldoon's maid, turning out to be an unforgivable snitch who has all the wrong answers to the mystery.

Don George in his first endeavour in community theatre also brings credibility to his character Simon who is suspected of criminal insanity and insatiable lust.

An object of that lust, Felicity played by Susan Stevens in her eighth community theatre role is the counterpart to Cynthia in the melodrama department.

The droll Eugene Farve as an exsatz Inspector Hound brings an air of calm to the terror-stricken inhabitants of the manor with his air of authority and his reassuring costumes.

Ted Steckman, in sartorial splendor, rolls around the stage as the spurned Major Magus—and brings the denouement and a sense of relief that this really was a dress rehearsal and not a audition.

Also heard is Ricky Tharp as the radio voice.

Curtain is at 8:15 p.m. each evening at the center on Coleman Avenue. The play will be repeated Friday and Saturday, April 10 and 11.

Tickets are available at the door for $4.

ASCS Report

Voluntary feed grain

A voluntary diversion payment provision is in effect for the 1987 Feed Grain Program.

Franklin A. Goss, CEO of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office, said the provision applies to farmers who set aside the required 20 percent of their feed grain acreage and voluntarily divert an additional 15 percent.

For diverting the additional acreage, feed grain producers will receive payment rates per bushel of $2 for corn, $1.50 for sorghum, $1.50 for barley and 50 cents for oats. The per-bushel rates will be multiplied by the program yield established for the farm times the acres diverted, the ASCS official explained.

"Farmers participating in the voluntary diversion program take out of production an acreage equal to 35 percent of their base. The maximum participation requirement is 30 percent, and the additional voluntary diversion is 15 percent," Goss said.

He pointed out that farmers participating in the voluntary diversion program for corn, sorghum, barley and oats may request 50 percent of their estimated diversion payments in advance. Also at signing, they may request 40 percent of their estimated deficiency payments—50 percent of the payments will be in cash and 50 percent in generic certificates.

Deficiency payments are made to farm program participants when the average market price falls below the established target price for a crop.

Signups for the feed grain and other 1987 commodity programs will be conducted at the ASCS county office through March 30, 1987.

Execution date sought by AG

JACKSON—Attorney General Ed Pittman asked the Mississippi Supreme Court Monday to set an execution date for convicted murderer Edward Earl Johnson.

Johnson was convicted of killing Town Marshall J.L. Trice of Walnut Grove in June 2, 1975. His last appeal to the United States Supreme Court was denied January 1986.

Johnson's conviction had been affirmed by the state Supreme Court on May 1, 1982. His subsequent request for a stay of execution was denied by the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi on the same day. The U.S. Supreme Court affirmed the stay of execution on May 1, 1982.

The Mississippi Supreme Court dated its decision on May 1, 1982, affirming the stay of execution. The stay was lifted on May 1, 1982.

"Johnson has exhausted all available avenues of appeal, both state and federal," Pittman said.

"His case has been in litigation for almost seven years, actually longer than the Jimmy Lee Gray case," Gray, the last person to be executed in Mississippi, went to the gas chamber in 1960.

Two other cases are pending before the state Supreme Court at this time on matters of recent conviction. Willie Redden, sentenced to death for the December 2, 1984 murder of a woman, Arthur Williams, was sentenced to death by the state Supreme Court on May 1, 1982.

The Mississippi Supreme Court dated its decision on May 1, 1982, affirming the stay of execution. The stay was lifted on May 1, 1982.

Today is the big Spring Pilgrimage Day for the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

Festivities begin at 10 a.m. for the 13-stop tour, and members of the Garden Club are looking forward to having many local residents visit the points of interest.

Diamondhead's Pilgrimage will be held tomorrow with eight tour stops for visitors and local residents.

We hope to see you at the Spring Pilgrimage.

On Friday and Saturday of this and next week, The Waveland Players will present 'The Real Inspector Hound' at the Civic Center on Coleman Avenue.

The mystery-comedy, written by Tom Stoppard, will be performed in two short acts.

A cast has been working very hard during rehearsals under the direction of Nan Ehrbright and should make for an entertaining evening.

Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m. and tickets will be available at the door for $4 each.

Many local gardeners are having a hard time in preparing their garden sites because of the quite frequent rains.

I have been trying to get mine turned, but when it is just about dry enough, down comes another rain.

A Bay St. Louis resident was telling me last week how she has a hard time driving around the area because of the so many beautiful flowering shrubs and bulbs that can be seen.

The rains appeared to have helped the flowering shrubs and bulbs.

If one would take one's time and look around the area, there are many Spring blooms to be noticed.

Daylight Savings Time comes early this year with the clocks jumping ahead one hour on Sunday, April 5.

Churchgoers need to pay special attention and change their clocks Saturday night so they will not be an hour late for Sunday services.

So don't forget to set your clocks ahead one hour Saturday night.

Election Day is several months away and this is just a reminder to persons new to our area of the importance of being registered in order to vote.

Mississippians will be electing party representatives in August from the governor on down to local county electors. This is an election which is held every four years.

A qualified resident needs to be registered at least 30 days prior to an election.

Residents of the county can register at the Circuit Court Clerk's office and residents of Bay St. Louis or Waveland can register at their respective city hall or the courthouse.

This enables a person residing in a city to be able to register only one time and be qualified in county as well as city elections.

If you are not registered and are 18 years or older, now is the time to do so before it is too late.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—What started out as a "Stop Ray Mabus" gubernatorial campaign in Mississippi this summer has now changed into the kind of horse race that is difficult to handicap.

Mabus, the audacious state auditor, must still be conceded the front-runner spot because he was out early getting his support and funding lined up. Add to that the fact he was already identified as a county corruption fighter before the recent federal dragnet started hauling in county supervisors.

But Mabus will obviously have a difficult time maintaining his early lead in the face of the political veterans with established followings who are now applying for the job.

It still amazes me that anyone would "want" to be governor of Mississippi because it has been such a dead-end job politically, to say nothing of the monumental task of trying to inch the state off the bottom economically.

But some do want it, even some who have either been there before, or who already have pretty safe public offices, or who would take a pay cut to become governor.

Last week, Mabus picked up two major Democratic opponents in Jackson attorney John Arthur Eaves and State Attorney General Ed Pittman. Eaves has been around the track twice before and Pittman has held three statewide offices. Coming shortly are Columbia attorney Maurice Dentin and former Gov. Bill Waller. Evidently Waller is waiting to be last to announce after Dentin, a top contender in 1975, makes his expected announcement next week.

Then, of course, there is Jack Reed, the wealthy Tupelo businessman and widely-known public education leader, who stages his show-opening this week as the major Republican hopeful.

Another wealthy individual, Mike Sturdivant, the Glendora farmer with extensive southwide business interests, is again interested in taking a flyer for the governorship, despite his expensive ($10 a vote), disastrous try in 1983 for the Democratic nomination.

So, in a field that remarkably will not include an incumbent governor who could be the first in more than a century to be re-elected, there is no shortage of high-power candidates.

The big question is however: where are all these major candidates going to get the money to put on major campaigns? Particularly in this an increasingly question with congressional races, including one Senate seat, coming almost back-to-back next March under the new state election law.

In a Democratic gubernatorial lineup that includes Dentin, Eaves, Mabus, Pittman, Sturdivant and Waller, the vote could be split so many ways that no one would get more than 25 percent of the vote and almost any combination could go in to the runoff.

No doubt Mabus is aware that he ing the front runner in April is a long way from winning the gubernatorial nomination in August. A case in point is that only rarely this century has the candidate who led in the first Democratic primary been able to survive the runoff.

Mabus is perhaps the only candidate in the race who would have liked to see Bill Allain run. Allain and Pittman would have gone at one another with hammer and tongs, while Mabus as the nice young man in shining armor could have remained out of the cross-fire. Now he will probably have to face the barbs of Pittman, the stubby veteran pol, who is perhaps the best stump speaker in the lot.

It has been more than a half century since Mississippi has elected a governor under 40, and with a strong contingent of older, more experienced political figures against him, Mabus' relative young (he's now 38) no doubt will become an issue.

No one really knows now, however, what Mississippians are looking for this year in a governor, or whether experience and maturity will be highly salable items. Certainly Waller would be in the best shape to stress experience and a rather progressive record in the governor's office, from 1972 to 1976, which no doubt would have been even better if he had not been blocked often by an obstructionist Legislature.

Pittman of course can cite his preparation for the office by service as a state senator, state treasurer, secretary of state, and attorney general. His tenure as AG, however, has brought him a host of critics, among them public school forces, wildlife conservationists, the State Ethics Commission and others.

Now that Pittman has apparently survived a U.S. attorney's probe of his past campaign contributions without an indictment, it's possible he could turn the tables and win sympathy on grounds he was a victim of a federal vendetta. Mississippians have been swayed by such arguments in the past.

Eaves will of course have his populist pitch aimed at rounding up the Cliff Finch supporters. Dentin will have his old-line conservatism appeals to mainstream business and Sturdivant, should he jump in, can claim to have the business acumen needed to break the state out of its economic funk.

Then, assuming Reed, who is a well-known and more liberal version of Sturdivant, will dispatch two minor GOP contenders (Doug Jensen, a Jackson investment broker and pretty-boy TV cable millionaire Allen Torrance) in a low-vote Republican primary, it will make it an entirely new race come November.

Meanwhile, Dick Morris, Allain's New York-based pollster, who's now credited with stirring up much of the recent flurry to get Congressman Trent Lott into the governor's race, has been taken into the Mabus camp, which proves Mabus is hardly missing a trick.

Architect frustrated in bid to share in public contracts

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

The past eight months have been both interesting and informative in relation to the Bay-Waveland School Board's actions regarding the selection of an architect for their long-range building program.

Prior to Dr. Oge coming on board as the new superintendent, the school board announced at one meeting they were to select an architect.

At that meeting, with little to no discussion, a motion was introduced by Mr. Glover to hire Fred Wagner as the architect.

Dr. Oge interceded and suggested that the board interview other prospective architects as well.

After a lengthy process, the list was cut to three and final decisions were to be held by the board.

At that meeting, again, little to no public discussion was held as to the merits of the three architects.

Mr. Glover made a motion to hire Mr. Wagner for a proposed new high school facility.

The superintendent then set out to do the initial programming as to the needs of the school system. It was decided to scale down the scope of the project, to renovate and to add to each of the four existing schools.

I suggested to the school board president that since the new program called for one large renovation project at the high school and lesser work at each of the other three schools, that possibly one or two of the smaller projects could be shared in the community with one or more other architects.

To me this seemed like it would serve as a goodwill gesture by the board to show that they indeed were not playing favorites.

At the board meeting Feb. 26, with Mr. Wagner present, his contract and the scope of work at each of the schools was discussed.

Mr. Wagner offered to prepare the first phase schematic designs needed prior to the bond issue for a cut rate price of only $1,000.

It was suggested that it would save the school board money if the bond issue failed.

The only condition was that this price would be used if the board signed his contract immediately for all four jobs.

When asked what his normal fee would be for this phase of work, Mr. Wagner refused to offer any amount.

In the instructions to the standard AIA contract, the normal amount for this phase of work is 15 percent of the total fee or in this case roughly $24,000.

This being the case, to me, it is clear that the low figure quoted was leverage to induce the board into signing a contract giving each of the four projects to Mr. Wagner prior to the changing of the board which occurred the following Saturday.

It seemed uncertain that given a new composition to the school board, that they would indeed give all projects to only one person.

It is a sad statement by that board that they failed in this opportunity to show to the community a willingness to share this work among more than one professional in the community.

I feel that my time I have invested in this community trying to establish and to maintain an architectural business is wasted if each and every major architectural project awarded by the governing bodies is passed out consistently to one individual.

I certainly could not recommend to the youth of this community to pursue an architectural career when few opportunities are available to practice their livelihood in this county.

Legislative Update

By Ellen Ann Fontrose
An announcement of the end of the Biddle Newman era and a squelched drug testing program for Mississippi school children topped last week at the Mississippi Capitol, where the three-month 1987 session is drawing to a close.

Adjournment of the session is set for Sunday, April 5, with few major differences left to iron out before this four-year legislative term becomes history.

Still unresolved are the fates of a Senate plan to issue $75 million in bonds to build 2,000 new prison beds and a House resolution to hold a state referendum on abolishing the LaBare trustees from the state College Board.

The state constitution authorizes the LaBare trustees, who must be from DeSoto County and vote only on matters affecting the University of Mississippi. In recent years, critics say the LaBare appointees have become a full voting member of the College Board through online funding and programs affecting all universities in the state.

After a long battle, the House defeated a measure to abolish the LaBare trustees, who donated money to Ole Miss in the 1950s. The measure was defeated 48-14.

Newman's retirement as Speaker was brought on by a House rebellion that brought sweeping democratization of House procedures in January. However, the Inge County legislator, who has drawn criticism from House rebels for heavy-handed asserting authority in his treatment of legislation and committee appointments, has yet to make public whether he will run for re-election to his House post again.

Stepping down along with the speaker will be his ally, House Management Committee director Bob Thigpen, whose power also drew criticism along with Newman's in the January House revolt. Thigpen's coming retirement from his post after a year in public at a House Management Committee meeting last week.

The fate of proposed statewide drug testing for all Mississippi school children was sealed Friday when a House subcommittee voted allowing consideration of a constitutional amendment on the issue.

Exclusion Device hearing set

Department of Wildlife Conservation Executive Director Joe Stone urges all commercial shrimpers and related seafood industry shippers, packers and dealers to attend a public hearing at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum Thursday on the Turtle Exclusion Device.

The Department of Commerce is expected to place its new law into effect July 15.

Stone indicated that Governor Bill Allain will be in attendance in support of the commercial fishermen's attempt to block the enactment of this new law.

Stone said, "...without the efforts of Senator Tommy Gollob and the entire Coastal Delegation on behalf of our commercial shrimpers the possibility of the blocking of the (TED) enactment would have been impossible."

Stone added, "...action taken by the congressional subcommittee of Louisiana Representative Bob Livingston may give our commercial fishermen, as well as all fishermen in the Gulf of Mexico, a reprieve of 12 months and cause further study of the effectiveness of the device as well as its impact on shrimpers."

WW II unit sets reunion

The 904th Field Artillery Battalion of the famed 79th Infantry Division of WW II will conduct its 36th annual reunion in Jackson July 3-6.

The battalion, after participating in the Normandy Invasion, was distinguished for conquering the Cherbourg Peninsula in addition to battle campaigns in Northern France, Rhineland and Central Europe.

The 79th Division was known as the Lorraine Cross Division and was awarded France's Unit Citation of the Croix De Guerre for its assistance in combat to that country.

Duke Levy, now a resident of Diamondhead, who served with the battalion from its activation in June 1942 and throughout combat, is interested in getting this reunion notice to all former members of the 904th Battalion who reside in Mississippi and neighboring states.

Joiner announces for re-election

Bob Joiner, highway commissioner for the 30-county Southern Highway District, announced his candidacy for re-election.

Joiner, a three-term mayor of Waynesboro, was first elected Southern District highway commissioner in 1979. He was unopposed for re-election in 1983 and is currently serving his second term.

"During the past eight years," Joiner said, "more construction has been let to contract than any similar period of time prior to my administration."

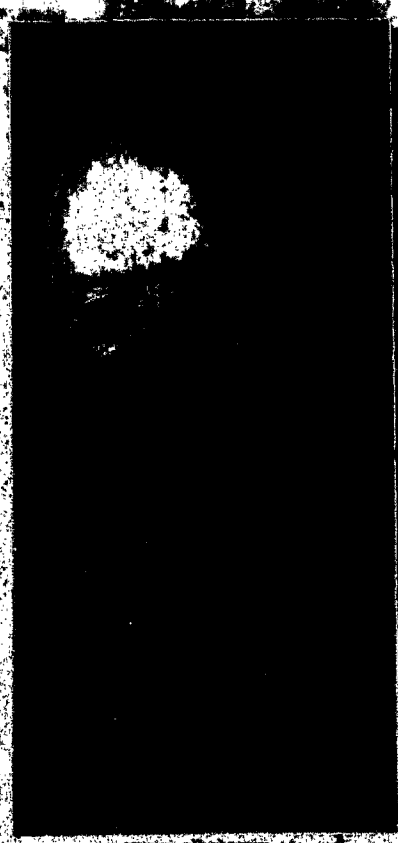

South Mississippi has more four-lane highways than any other section of Mississippi, and Joiner pledges to continue this highway development in south Mississippi.

Joiner cited as accomplishments, the completion of the Hattiesburg By-pass, the completion of Interstate 10 on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the completion of both welcome centers on Interstate 10, the placement under total contract of Interstate 110 in the Biloxi area, the contract letting of the Mississippi River Bridge at Natchez, the four-lane construction of Highway 84 between Collins and Laurel and the completion of the four-lane on Highway 90 between McComb and the Pike-Walthall County line.

Many other four-lane highways have been placed under contract during his administration, he noted.

Joiner was reared in Wayne County and attended the University of Mississippi on a football scholarship. Later, he worked in the oil fields of south Louisiana before returning to Waynesboro and entering business with his father. He later formed his own insurance agency.

Taxpayer information provided by phone

You begin preparing your 1986 federal income tax form; there are items which spark questions; you need clarification on credits or deductions you might be able to take. What to do? That's easy! Go to the source — contact the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS has a number of tax assistance services available to help taxpayers prepare their own returns, and prepare them correctly. Over 37 million people called for help last year and spoke to IRS Taxpayer Service Representatives through the toll-free information service. The IRS information number is in your telephone directory. If the phone number is outside your local calling area, you can call toll-free 1-800-424-1040.

IRS also provides a special year-round telephone service for deaf taxpayers throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Those who have TV/telephone-TTY equipment can call the IRS toll-free from 8 a.m. to 6:45 p.m. E.S.T. from January through April on 1-800-424-4732. Indiana residents should call 1-800-362-4059. During the rest of the year TTY lines are available between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. E.S.T.

You may also access the IRS Tele-Tax System, a recorded information service on about 150 tax topics. Lists of all the tax subjects can be found in your tax forms package and Publication 810, "Guide to Free Tax Services," an excellent resource which provides information on all of the free tax services IRS provides. It also lists other IRS publications you can get to help answer questions on a multitude of tax subjects — over 90 publications in all.

You can order tax forms or any of the free IRS publications using the order form in your tax package, the order form in Publication 810 or by calling 1-800-424-FORM (3678).

Many librarians volunteer to provide taxpayers with all kinds of tax aids to help prepare tax forms. You can borrow audio and video tapes which give simple, one-by-line instructions in preparing Form 1040EZ, Form 1040A with Schedule I, and Form 1040 and Schedules A & B. Perhaps your library is one of 15,000 nationwide that provide these tax aids.

For those who prefer a more personal contact, IRS employees provide assistance at many local offices during normal business hours.

The IRS also recruits volunteers to help taxpayers prepare their tax returns. You might have heard the acronyms VITA and TCE. These initials stand for Volunteer Income Tax Assistance, and Tax Counseling for the Elderly. The programs are available to the elderly, lower-income, handicapped and non-English speaking taxpayers, to help them prepare their income tax returns. VITA and TCE programs are offered at convenient times and locations in your community.

In addition, IRS provides tax assistance to groups — to taxpayers and through its Community Outreach Tax Assistance Program. Generally, Outreach sessions are conducted at times convenient to those who are unable to seek assistance at IRS offices during normal business hours.

The program helps groups complete their tax returns through line-by-line instruction and also provides tax information seminars.

Another popular type of assistance is the Small Business Tax Workshop Program where people new in business, established in business, and those who are self-employed, can learn about their tax responsibilities as business taxpayers, proper recordkeeping techniques and Federal Tax Deposit requirements, to name a few areas.

Your IRS office can give you all the information you need to participate in any of these taxpayer assistance programs.

Consumer update on rental cars

With spring on the way and thoughts turning to summer vacation planning, consumers find that selecting the most economical rental car agency for their trip is not an easy decision.

While advertisements may seem to offer good rates, what you see is not always what you get. Always quote a rate for the smallest car in their fleet, and switch tactics are not always in the consumer's favor.

To avoid problems, and getting more than you bargained for, do some comparison shopping and know in advance which car and features will best suit your needs before selecting a car rental agency.

Consumers may also be encouraged by the rental car agency to purchase a collision damage waiver (CDW). The waiver isn't insurance but a contract in which the rental company will waive its right to charge the customer for any damage to the auto. The waiver costs around $7 to $8 per day.

The rental company may refuse to rent the car even if you have coverage under your own personal automobile insurance policy. Or, if you refuse to sign the waiver, the company may require you to sign a credit card receipt. If you damage the car, the company will bill you on the card receipt you have already signed. As with any contract, read it thoroughly and be sure you understand its provisions before signing.

Most companies charge customers for whatever gas is required to fill the tank when the car is returned. Rental car companies' gas prices have always been significantly higher than the prevailing pump prices, according to the Wall Street Journal. Recently the refueling charge at some car rental companies has been as much as 50 percent higher than pump prices. You can pocket the savings by filling up the tank before turning the car back in.

Although you rent a car to get from one place to another, you should be aware, however, that you may have to pay an additional drop-off charge if the car is not returned to the originating location.

Still other companies charge a "one-way" fee that may actually cost more than the round trip fee and drop-off charge. Also, be punctual in returning the car. Some companies charge a full day's rental (including CDW and insurance) if the car is returned three hours late.

Know your rights and obligations before renting. Beware of these potential problems when selecting the rental agency that will best suit your needs and your pocketbook.

BY KATY MC GUIRE CAIRE

A tried and true "standby" recipe is a necessity for just about every cook, for no matter how well you plan, or think you plan, there will always be that unexpected occasion, which calls for spur-of-the-moment entertaining.

Late the other afternoon, I was just about to toss into the pan a small, solitary steak for my supper, along with a few fresh mushrooms and such - when my phone rang. I was, of course, delighted to hear from a long-time friend, who had stopped in Biloxi en route home to New Orleans, so of course, I asked her and her companions to dinner.

There wasn't much time to "come up" with the meal, and there was absolutely no way to stretch that steak and those few mushrooms! Fortunately, I've fallen into the habit of "stashing" a few casseroles in the freezer for just such a time. So, out came a spinach-chicken-thin spaghetti mixture, and all was well. The casserole, along with a green salad and hot French bread, filled the bill.

This is an excellent dish for a buffet party, and freezes well; and if you're a small family or a live-aloner, you can easily freeze it in small portions. You may also substitute ham or pork or shrimp or tuna fish for the chicken called for in the recipe. So, here's:

Spinach-Chicken-Tetrazzini
2 cups cooked chicken, in chunks
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 bunch fresh spinach or 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well, well drained
1 medium onion, chopped
2 cups chicken broth or stock
1/3 cup flour
1 cup milk
2 cups sharp Cheddar cheese, grated
1/4 cup dry sherry
8 oz. thin spaghetti, cooked and drained
Melt approximately three tablespoons of the butter in a rather large saucepan, add the chopped onion and saute until soft. (At this point, if you're using fresh spinach, rinsed, drained and chopped, add it at this point and saute to the wilting point, stirring from time to time.) Otherwise, just add the thawed spinach to the sauteed onions, and cook for one slow minute. Remove the vegetables, and set aside.

Add the remainder of the butter to the skillet, and melt slowly over low heat. Add the flour and dashes of pepper to your taste, stirring until smooth. Gradually stir in the reserved broth and milk (if you haven't any broth on hand, use canned broth or even bouillon cubes, if you must, but chicken broth is so useful to keep on hand - and besides, what do you do with the chicken bones, anyway?)

At any rate, add the cheese, vegetables and chicken chunks, and let's not forget the sherry! Stir over low heat until the cheese melts. Add the spaghetti to the sauce, and spoon the whole business into a 2-quart baking dish. Top with foil, and bake for a half hour in a 350 degree oven. Remove foil, and bake for another five minutes or so. (Six to eight servings.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Jay Artigues, a student at Pearl River Junior College, is seen in action during a game. The photo is credited to AP/Wide World.

SSC defeats George County in district baseball thriller, 4-3

The St. Stanislaus Rockchaw Varsity Baseball Team rallied from a 3-2 deficit in the bottom of the eighth inning to tie and then push across the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning to defeat district rival George County 4-3 in a contest played last Thursday at Rockchaw baseball field.

Jay Artigues continued his hot hitting streak as he went 2 for 2, walked twice, and scored two runs for the Rocks. Cedric Smith also contributed two hits, and drove in two runs.

George County struck for a lone run in the top of the first, after winning pitcher Tom Zant retired the first two batters. P. Cochran doubled, S. Nixon was safe on an error, scoring Cochran, as the Rebels led 1-0.

SSC got the run back in the bottom of the first as Artigues led off with a single to left field, and Scott Heitzmann followed with a single. Cedric Smith's single scored Artigues. The Rocks had two runners on base with no outs when George County struck for a lone run in the top of the second, stranding the runners with a game tied 1-1.

The Rockchaws let a golden opportunity to score some runs and take control of the game slip through their fingers in the second inning. Joe Welsh led off with a single, and after Rhodes and Shabazz flied out, Artigues hit his second single of the game.

With runners on first and second, Heitzmann hit a ball to the right side of the infield, where all runners were safe. Welsh turned the corner at third, and tried to get in a rundown going to home plate. He was easily tagged out by the Rebel catcher, stranding Artigues and Heitzmann on the bases.

Things were quiet until the top of the fifth inning as the Rocks picked up their second run on Artigues' walk, followed by Heitzmann's bunt which advanced Artigues to second base. Smith then followed with his second single of the game, scoring Artigues as the Rocks led 2-1.

Sixth inning as J. Hinton was safe on an error, Pierce struck out, and Cochran bunted between the SSC pitcher and catcher. The throw to first base was wild, as Hinton scored all the way from first base. Nixon followed with his second hit of the game, scoring Cochran and the Rebels led 3-2.

William Scarborough of the Rocks singled with one out in the bottom of the sixth. Rocky Rhodes flied out to left field for the second out, and with Scarborough on second base, YaSin Shabazz's grounder up the middle scored Scarborough to tie the game. Artigues then walked, but Heitzmann flied out to the pitcher to end the inning.

Zant held the Rebels scoreless in the top of the last inning. Cedric Smith led off with a single, and Bert Dean hit one back to the pitcher which could not be handled. With runners on first and second, DH Shane Sigsworth hit a deep fly to right center field which was caught at the fence, but Smith easily scored from third base to secure the 4-3 victory for the Rocks.

SSC, A-3, plays District competitor Hancock North Central at the HNC field Thursday with gametime scheduled for 4 p.m.

Bassin' with the pros

Bass are well schooled in competition

Locating a school of bass can be a fisherman's dream ... or nightmare. It all depends on whether the angler is ready to deal with a feeding frenzy spawned out of competition.

Bass react like any other fish when it comes to competition for food. If you throw a worm into a school of panfish, for instance, two or three fish are going to attack the worm while two or three more circle the others for any "crumbs."

Schooled bass are no different. Bass group up and suspend in deep water for sensible reasons like oxygen requirements, water temperature, light penetration, etc. And you'll be able to locate schools in deep water structure, on dropoffs and in creek channels.

This competitive sense of the bass for food definitely works to the angler's advantage, as long as the bass enthusiast is prepared with two or more properly rigged rods. When you get into a school of bass and they start hitting, you don't have a long time to capitalize on it.

For Guido Hibdon, Johnson Outboards Pro Team member, favorite lure choices for finding schools are crank baits, "those naturalized crank baits or the ones that resemble a little fish."

"If an old big bass has picked himself out a place and you've found one on a certain piece of structure, say a point or big old stump that's a sitting point," Hibdon says, "usually you can put your pattern together real easy by running and hunting those very same things."

Knowing the bass' sense of competition and understanding its territorial instinct can mean the difference between having a regular outing or a more than memorable encounter.

Most professional and amateur bass tournaments require all entrants to wear an approved personal flotation device whenever the outboard motor is running. It's a good idea to wear a PFD whenever you're on the water, and how Johnson and Evinrude motors have made that a little easier with a PFD designed just for bass fishermen.

The anglers are generously cut for ease of movement, and the side laces are adjustable to help keep cool in any weather. The vests are available in Johnson and Evinrude colors.

Boatway parks map available to outdoorsmen

Constructed by the Pearl River Basin Development District, 17 water parks along the Pearl, Bogie, Chitto, Strong and Jourdan Rivers offer adventure for the entire family.

To help plan a weekend of camping and canoeing or a day of fun fishing and picnicking, the District has published a new boatway map which is available to the public free of charge.

Pertinent information such as river miles, major streams and tributaries and the location of water parks, boat ramps, river gages, etc. has been compiled to make this map informative and helpful.

The reverse side depicts characteristics and history of the river, along with a description of park facilities for each of the water parks.

All information is free to the public and may be obtained by contacting the Pearl River Basin Development District, P.O. Box 5332, 2004 Riverside Drive, Jackson, MS 39216-1332, (601) 354-6301.

CAMPING ON THE JOURDAN—Boatway parks feature both formal and primitive camping. Outdoor enthusiasts pitch their tent near the banks of the Jourdan River at McLeod Water Park in Hancock County.

Steamers to travel to Beaumont

The Bay St. Louis State Soccer Team, sponsored by McDonald Realty and Alton Cable, travels to Beaumont, Texas this weekend to participate in the 8th annual Spindrop Soccer Tournament.

The boys leave at noon Friday and will play two games Saturday and one Sunday in the Qualifying Round.

country with over 200 teams participating.

"The boys will be in for some rough competition from old enemies like the Baton Rouge Rebels and the Pascagoula Blackhawks as well as some new teams," said coach Tom Dembock.

"But they're a motivated group of athletes and are really looking forward to the trip," he added.

Parents and soccer enthusiasts are invited to come along. Call Coach Dembock for details.

Clermont youth corps continuing clean-up, planning expansion

BY DENA BISNETTE
Clermont Harbor Youth Corps members are continuing their efforts to keep their neighborhood own committees to organize clean-up efforts. Those committees include financial, work, activities and refreshcommending their work. More information about the group is available from Cranmer at 467-3281.

bitt, Mike Hogue, Counselor Ina Cranmer, Norrin Luxich and Counselor Christine Luxich. Not pictured are advisors Eric Hogue and Melinda McQueen and members Emmie Carver, Jenie Carver, Barrett Lehman, Eve Vizzini, Don Hunter, Darrell Alley, Ray Jay Bingham and Tommy Carver. clean.

Long-range plans include an expansion of their clean-up territory. The group consists of young people ranging in age from 11 to 17 and was organized several months ago after Ina Cranmer, a Clermont Harbor resident, found a way to put together what she saw as two of the community's major needs.

Cranmer said she had become a "neighborhood mom" and realized that there are few activities for young people in Clermont Harbor.

She also saw a lot of litter in the neighborhood that was just waiting for someone to collect it.

Rainy weather has delayed some of the youth corps efforts, but much of that litter has now disappeared.

"Every time I turned around, I had a bunch of kids hanging around at my house. A few would come over to visit my boys and then next time they'd bring a few more," Cranmer said.

"I saw a need and I wanted to turn it around and make it productive, but the kids have really done it themselves."

The group meets at the Cranmer home to organize its clean-up efforts and are gradually working their way through the Clermont Harbor community.

Among their latest achievements has been a clean-up at the Clermont Harbor Alligator Pond.

Cleaning up around the pond was not enough for the youth corps members, who were able to borrow a boat and do some cleaning in the pond itself.

"It was funny, but at the same time it was bad. Every time someone put a paddle in the water, it would hit a big bag of garbage," Cranmer said.

"The bags had gone below the surface but there was still enough air in the plastic bottles and things in it to bring the bags up if something touched them."

"We counted 15 big bags of garbage that came out of the pond."

Cranmer explained that the youth corps members have formed their ment committees. All of the members have volunteered to serve because no one in the Clermont Harbor Youth Corps is assigned to anything unless he or she volunteers.

Members then scout the neighborhood to see what areas need cleaning most, but often a clean-up will extend past the designated area if someone looks up the road and sees more trash ahead.

As an incentive, youth corps members receive $1 per bag of trash collected.

"We're beginning to need financial assistance. We have had a lot of help from people who have donated lunches for the group and from one of the churches, but it's getting harder to come up with money," Cranmer said.

Long-range plans for the group include an expansion down to Bayou Cadet and planting of decorative shrubs or flowers on public property.

In addition, Cranmer and the group's other adult counselors and advisors want to take youth corps members to visit Ship Island when the weather improves.

Another proposed project is having Clermont Harbor reopened.

According to Cranmer, the area is a marsh now because a hurricane shut off the channel.

If the harbor can be reopened, there is someone interested in funding a summer recreational development with a public pier, paddleboats and canoes for visitors to the Clermont Harbor area.

The development is of particular interest to the Clermont Harbor Youth Corps because it would create jobs for the young people, she added. Youth corps counselors and advisors in addition to Cranmer include Mary Bobbitt, Christine Luxich, Eric Hogue and Melinda McQueen.

The group now includes about 17 members and recently received recognition from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, which presented the Youth Corps members with a framed copy of a resolution

Library Week opens Apr. 5

Focusing on reading skills, libraries across the nation will celebrate April 5-11, 1987 as National Library Week. "Take Time to Read - Use Your Library" is this year's theme.

"In Mississippi, making visible the value of libraries to the economic, cultural, social and educational life of communities is a National Library Week goal," says Mike Sturdivant, National Library Week State Chairman for Mississippi. An additional goal is to make known the need for library funding, according to Sturdivant.

Recently, over 350 librarians, trustees, friends and legislators gathered in Jackson to kickoff National Library Week 1987. At this meeting, former governor William Winter discussed how libraries and the state's effort to combat illiteracy will affect the future. Winter currently serves as chairman of the Commission on the Future of the South.

HNC balloons found in Florida

"Countdown to the Great Balloon Race began at 2:30 p.m. March 20, 1987," reports Dr. Dianne Tucker, principal of Hancock North Central Elementary.

Students at the school launched 700 helium-filled balloons as part of the nationwide Writing Pals Balloon Contest sponsored by 'Weekly Reader,' the classroom newspaper. "A message attached to each balloon explained the project and asks that the finder return it to Hancock North Central, said Tucker.

Draper Cuevas

Janace Newkirk, fifth grade

"Weekly Reader will present a $500 prize to the school that gets back the message that has traveled the farthest distance. In addition, 100 runner-up prizes will be awarded, adds Dr. Tucker.

Hopes are very high at Hancock North Central Elementary as Balloon Messages return. "All of us have high hopes that we'll win this year's Great Balloon Race," says Dr. Tucker. "Already the youngsters began receiving messages from all across the country."

So far, the farthest-traveled message cards sent back to Hancock Elementary was found by Cole Barnett, age 5, of Willingston, Florida with the name of Hunter Gamewell attached, and Todd Malley's balloon was found floating in the Gulf of Mexico about 20 miles south of the Pensacola Pass, Pensacola Beach, Fla.

Since the annual balloon launch began, 'Weekly Reader' has furnished nearly 4 million balloons to schools participating in the Weekly Reader writing Pals program a pen pal program in which Weekly Reader pairs classes across the country.

According to Dr. Tucker, the balloon launch was the climax of Hancock North Central Elementary's yearlong participation in Weekly Reader Writing Pals.

The goal of the program is to motivate children to write to and become familiar with students in other parts of the country.

Attendance Week to be observed

April 6-10 has been designated School Attendance Week in Mississippi, and schools will compete for recognition of "best attendance" during the week.

The activities are sponsored by the Mississippi Association of School Attendance Officers/Counselors (MASAO/C) and the Commission for Children and Youth, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

The theme for the observance is "Good School Attendance is Everybody's Business, The Home - The School - The Community." Student posters, essays and other materials will emphasize this message throughout the week. County, district and state winners will be recognized.

Schools will compete during this week to determine the one with the best attendance percentage. Winners will be selected in each county and school district. The state winner will be recognized April 24 by MASAO/C.

"Good school attendance really is everybody's business," said CCY Director Nellie Hutchison, whose office coordinates school attendance officers' activities across the state. "By setting aside this week, we hope to focus attention upon the responsibilities that we all have to ensure that our children attend school and get the best education possible. This is possible if homes, schools and communities work together. We encourage all schools to participate in Attendance Week activities."

For more information on School Attendance Week, contact the Commission for Children and Youth at 301 W. Pearl St., Jackson 39203-3090, or telephone 949-2009.

Paul presented Hardee Award

DR. JOE PAUL

HATTIESBURG—Dr. Joe Paul, dean of student development at the University of Southern Mississippi, has been named runner-up for the Melvyn D. Hardee Dissertation of the Year award.

Presented by the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators Inc., the award was made by Hardee during the association's convention held March 15-18 in Chicago, Ill.

"This is one of the top awards in the country for our association," said Dr. Peter Durkee, vice president for student affairs at USM. He added, "It is very prestigious and it's an honor to Joe and to the university. It's also a good example of the respect that his professional colleagues hold for him."

The award is presented annually in recognition of significant research in the area of student affairs. Named for Dr. Melvyn D. Hardee, a distinguished professor of higher education at Florida State University, it is designed to encourage high-quality research relevant to the field.

Paul completed the dissertation as a requirement for a doctoral degree that he received from the University of Alabama in December of 1985. The dissertation was entitled, "The Intercollegiate Athlete as a Student in Higher Education: Expectations, Interests and Academic Majors."

Paul, at USM since 1976, previously was assistant director of student activities and assistant to the vice president for student affairs before accepting his present position. A native of Bay St. Louis, he is the son of Lee and Helen Paul of Bay St. Louis.

Paul received bachelor's and master's degrees from USM in communications and management. His doctorate is in the field of administration of higher education.

Cracking the Egg's Many Secrets

Families eat more hard-cooked eggs at Eastertime than at any other time of the year.

Here's some eggs-tra tips about these oval delights. Much of the information was supplied by Pamela B. Hodson of the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

- If there is less than 7 cents difference between egg sizes, the larger size is a better buy.
- Store your fresh eggs in their carton so they won't absorb refrigerator odors. Storing them with the large end up will help maintain quality. Generally, when refrigerated, eggs will keep fresh 4 to 5 weeks.
- There is no nutritional difference between brown and white-shell eggs.
- To hard-cook eggs, place in single layers in a saucepan. Add tap water to an inch above eggs. Cover and bring to a boil, but do not boil. If necessary, remove from burner since over-boiling will turn the yolk grey. Let eggs stand covered in hot water for 15-30 minutes, depending on the number of eggs.
- Never leave eggs in the sun during an Easter egg hunt. Hide them in the shade and refrigerate as soon as possible.
- To remove shell, peel from large end. If refrigerated unshelled, protect in film wrap.

5 Timeless Tips for Women's Fashions

Anybody can pick out suitable clothing. But here are 5 easy tips to help change your wardrobe from fair to flair!

- Don't overdo any one color. It'll either be boring, or if it's a bright color, it'll be overpowering. Go for contrast, particularly with accessories.
 - Similarly, vary the texture of your clothing. Don't be all shiny, all lacy, or all wooly. Match that dazzling top with a non-competitive simple skirt.
 - If you want to look slimmer, you can do more than just avoid horizontal stripes. Select jackets, blouses, or sweaters which hang low. This will help draw the eye past the hips.
 - If you're short and wear frilly lace or nondescript accessories, you'll look like a teenager. Strive for a sleek, sophisticated image. In addition, steer away from low-hanging tops because your legs will appear shorter.
 - When traveling, pick tops and bottoms that can combine with each other to create a maximum number of different outfits. For more flexibility in your vacation plans, don't automatically jump in sweatpants for sightseeing. A comfortable blazer and pants will allow an unplanned excursion to a classy museum or to dinner.
- Of course, even though you're shooting for style and flair, it's too expensive to buy only flashy and fun clothes. They could become obsolete while quality basics can be worn for years.

Ask An Expert

Dear Expert:
Should I change my makeup
during cold weather?

G.R.L.
Chalmette, La.

Dear G.R.L.:

The cold days and even colder nights of ol' man winter mean drier skin on the face, hands, and other exposed parts of the body. That's why using a moisturizer is so important during this time of the year.

Moisturizers have several functions. By saturating the skin with moisturizers that include oils or emollients, the skin becomes smoother and more pliable. Some products also introduce anti-aging elements into the skin which offer another level of protection.

Whatever you use, make sure it is compatible with your skin type. Professionals, such as the Merle Norman Beauty Advisors at North Shore Square, can help you select the best product for your particular skin type.

A Job Hunting Survival Guide

by Nathan Chapman

So you're looking for a new job? Here's some questionable advice from somebody whose job is to write it:

Resume - Putting your resume on stationery from your current office is tacky. Likewise, using personal stationery with bunny drawings is a bad idea. When writing your resume, don't exaggerate. Even if you worked in a greenhouse, don't call yourself a plant manager.

Job Leads - The best plan is to have your father buy a factory. If that can't be arranged, look in the classifieds. Did you notice that doughnut cutters always need experience? How long can it take to learn how to cut doughnuts? I figure about 12 minutes. My best advice: If you have to ask what the job is, you don't want it.

Handshake - Practice your handshake to make a good impression. To get practice you can either run for political office or go stand at the end of a wedding reception line. Remember, if a person's watch leaves his body, you're shaking too hard.

Interview Wardrobe - Pin stripes should always run

Taxing Time of the Year

While most of the recent headlines have focused on the tax law changes that took effect at the beginning of this year, you must use the old laws to calculate your taxes for 1986.

If you plan to hire someone to complete your tax forms, it will pay to get organized before you walk in the tax preparer's door, according to Leena Ritchie, tax manager for Lovell & Company, a New Orleans accounting firm which has numerous clients on the North Shore. Since most tax preparation is billed on an hourly basis, by sorting your receipts and checks into the categories of donations, taxes, interest, business expenses, and health costs, and by bringing a categorized list of your revenues, your bill will be significantly lower than if you merely bring in a shoebox full of pieces of paper. Furthermore, if you're organized, there's less chance that income or a deduction will be overlooked.

Ritchie also warns taxpayers that the Internal Revenue Service is cracking down on taxpayers who fail to "report all their income accurately." Even interest and dividends of a couple of dollars must be reported. This information is sent to the I.R.S. by financial institutions and corporations so you will get a notice of underpayment in a couple of years if the amounts on your tax return do not match amounts reported to the I.R.S. Not only will you have to pay the deficiency, but also interest and penalties. These I.R.S. notices can be "a headache to look into," she explains.

Here's a list of some often forgotten deductions for you to consider when doing your taxes for last year. Comments on how the law has been changed for 1987 are listed in parentheses.

- Expenses to improve job knowledge and skills, such as books, magazines, and fees for seminars and courses. In addition, safety deposit box rentals which are used to store documents related to income-producing activity are deductible. (The total of these deductions in excess of 2% of your Adjusted Gross Income will be deductible.)
- Not only is the fair market value of clothing and property which is donated to charity deductible, so is mileage incurred in charity work. For 1986, you can deduct all of your charitable contributions, even if you don't itemize. (Will only be deductible if you itemize.)
- Remember to include transportation costs or mileage for trips to dentist, doctor, hospital, and pharmacy. Medical costs over 5% of Adjusted Gross Income are deductible. (Rises to over 7.5% of A.G.I.)
- Within limits, you may deduct the cost of property lost due to storm damage, accidents, theft, or sudden acts of God. (You must seek reimbursement from your insurance company, then the difference, if any, between the item's fair market value

World Should You Take Vitamins?

Fact #1

If you eat on the run, remember that many fast foods will give you more calories from fat and sugar than nutrition from vitamins and minerals.

Fact #2

If you skip meals like most Americans because you are just too busy, or to cut calories, you are also skipping and cutting nutrients needed to maintain good health.

Fact #3

If you are a working woman, you probably just don't have the time to plan, organize and prepare the menus for your family that will assure that they get all the nutrients they need from a balanced diet.

Of course, as Ben Capshaw of Dean Witter Reynolds (which has an office in Sears at North Shore Square) notes, with all the changes in the tax laws, it's important that taxpayers talk with a financial consultant to see if they should adopt new investment strategies in order to minimize their tax liability for the next time April 15 arrives.

The Interview - If you can correctly work the word "eschew" into your conversation, you'll do great. Otherwise, if the interviewer asks your biggest weakness, try to say something non-incriminating like "ice cream." If they ask if you get along well with people, say "Yes, some of my best friends are people."

The Wait - After the interview, sending flowers may seem like a good idea, but it should be eschewed.
